'Ensuring every teacher is supported in delivering high-quality teaching is essential to achieving the best outcomes for all pupils, particularly the most disadvantaged' – EEF, School Improvement Planning

Conference aims:

The phrase 'high-quality teaching' is almost certainly used more than it is examined. The OneCornwall Conference explicitly aims to address many of the practices behind the term, and to focus on improving outcomes for disadvantaged students.

Who for?

MAT CEOs, governors, primary and secondary headteachers, senior leaders, classroom teachers

(Note that implementation workshops 3 and 5 are more suitable for leaders)

Who's who?

Andy Brumby: Co-Director, Cornwall Associate Research School)

Marc Cooper: As Deputy Headteacher at Brannel School, Marc led a trust-wide implementation programme focused on metacognition

Clare Crowle: Strategic Lead, OneCornwall Teaching School Hub

Jon Eaton: Director, Kingsbridge Research School

Lorwyn Randall: Regional Delivery Lead – South West & South Coast, Education Endowment Foundation

John Rodgers: Co-Director, Cornwall Associate Research School
